Fishlines Sixty Miles Long. The most of the ballbut are caught with the hook and line. The fishing, however, has nothing gamy or sporting about it. The lines are drop down into the sea to such a way that the baited books rest on the bed of the ocean . The lines are of great length. Some of them are sixty miles long When loaded with fish it takes the steam engine on the vessel the better part of a day to wind them up. They are divided into sections, each section baving a float or buoy that rests on the surface and is marked by a flag in the daytime and at night by a light

> Pugnacious Earwigs. Observation has disclosed that earwigs are quarrelsome creatures and always ready to use their nippered tails against each other upon the slightest provocation. When any light suddenly falls upon them congregated at the sugar some are more scared than the others and scuttle past them, when each earwig which they nearly touch in flight will savagely swing back Ita tall and nip in the air with fury, Sometimes the blow falls upon a neigh for, who instantly retaliates, and baif dozen furious nips are rapidly interchanged But fighting weight quickly settles the quarret, the smaller earwig scuttling off and the larger pursuing him for balf an inch, running blindly backward and reaching savagely to right and left with his nippers Yet these same earwigs, so vindictive at meals, will be crammed, all sizes together, into any hole or crack by day, and they must be very gentle with each other then, for among them you may find some that have just cast their skins, snow white, soft and belpless

The Fastest Swimmers. Few people bave any idea of the rapid pace attained by some fish. The dolphin and porpoise are perhaps the swiftest of all. The latter fish has been seen to dart round and round a steamer proceeding at between seventeen and eighteen miles an hour. Probably a bonito in fish of the mackerel family) at its best could move for some Republican Candidate for distance at forty miles an hour. Salmon, too, and trout swim very fast, particularly when accomplishing their annual spawning migration upstream. Herrings in shouls move at a steady ten or twelve miles, but mackerel much faster. Whales, though not fish, can swim at a great speed. When excited Republican Candidate for they will dash along at as much as seventeen miles an hour, but ordinarily four or five miles an hour is their speed. Seals, again, are much more speedy, and certain eastern water snakes glide along at terrific velocities.
